Seventh Annual Cultural Resource Protection Summit

"Bridging Policy and Practice"

The 2014 Cultural Resource Protection Summit marks the seventh anniversary of our gathering. Since its inception, the primary goal in organizing the annual Summit has been to facilitate amongst all affected parties an open, frank discussion about the intersection between cultural resources and land use. This year, the Summit agenda will encourage attendees to examine the challenges of bridging the gap between policy and practice that often emerges as we move from paper to protection. Keynotes, panels, and interactive sessions will address recent SEPA rule changes, local/tribal permitting, curation, dispute resolution, creative mitigation, and other timely topics. Join us at the Suquamish Tribe's beautiful and inviting House of Awakened Culture for a two-day gathering that will help you improve your technical skills while deepening your connection to why we do this work. Leave with more tools for bridging the gaps of cultural resource protection and sharing the important stories our resources tell.

SPECIAL PANEL DISCUSSION ON 2014 SEPA RULE CHANGES:

Join State Senator John McCoy (D-38th), members of Ecology's SEPA Rule Making Advisory Committee, and Ecology staff for a discussion of recent rule changes as they relate to cultural resource policies and practices. Find out how the new rules will shape cultural resource protection in Washington State and discuss the possibility of further improvements.
